Casino boy's club

I see the boy's club wins again ("Appeals court next stop for casino fight," Press, March 6). It's a shame that 1,800 people who need permanent jobs will have to wait. Let's not forget all the construction workers who will still be living on unemployment benefits, money from parents or, worse yet, government assistance, when they could be busy working on building a casino, then later building new homes for American Indians.

So the boys will be raising their crystal wine glasses filled with expensive wine cheering "Yahoo." While the unemployed drink beer and yell, "Boo."

I bet if the boy's club could legally own and open a casino in Grand Haven, its members wouldn't be saying it wouldn't be good for Grand Rapids. They would be digging the foundation tomorrow.
