

Some thoughts on...

Wednesday, May 24, 2006

My goodness gracious there is a whole lot of political games being played at this time of year ... Received word that Gov. Granholm has changed the face of Michigan's Women's Commission ... we must assume she has kicked all the ladies off the commission who are Republicans and replaced them with Democrats ... One of those being booted off, effective on July 15, when her term expires is our own County Clerk/Register of Deeds Joyce Watts ... She's being replaced by a Rana Abbas of Dearborn ... Of course, the senate must consent ... I wish the governor would have devoted the time she spent on these appointments to deciding to support the Gun Lake Indians and their efforts to building a casino ... And, from the state of New York comes word that the Democrats have decided to oppose their incumbent Sen. Joe Lieberman ... He's not liberal enough for them and he doesn't hate GW ... I'm wondering if the Dems, who are in a position to do some real damage to the GOP in this midterm election, might not be turning people off with their spiteful rhetoric?
